

The following symptoms require immediate attention. If you have any of these symptoms call your surgeon or present to the Emergency Department or Urgent Care Center immediately.

- Chest pain
- Shortness of breath or difficulty taking deep breaths
- Fever greater than 101.5 degrees for 3 or more days after surgery
- Severe stomach pain or nausea accompanied by vomiting
- Sensation changes – new onset numbness, tingling, weakness in arms and/or legs
- Increase swelling, pain or redness around the incision
- Any change in color, odor or amount of drainage from the incision
- Develop difficulty urinating or controlling bowel movements
- Increased swelling in the ankles and/or feet
- Increase swelling in legs and/or arms
- Severe pain, swelling, heat or tenderness in the calf, back of the knees or groin area
- Confusion